MOKENA MOTHER TO GET SON'S MEDAL

Tinley Dairy Woman Driver Shot In Eye

Mrs. Robt. Henschell, driver of a dairy truck for the Tinley Park Dairy covering the Midlothian territory, was shot in the eye by a beebee shot fired by a group of boys as she was about to make a milk delivery in Midlothian Saturday morning.

Mrs. Henschell does not know who the boys were and said they fled after shooting directly at her. She was taken to the office of Dr. Pomeroy in Midlothian who at first believed the shot had lodged in the eye ball but in order to determine the extent of the injuries, he had Mrs. Henschell taken to the Ingalls Memorial hospital at Harvey where an x-ray was taken which however failed to disclose any shot lodged in the eye ball.

Mrs. Henschell notified the dairy company that she would be on duty even though she will have the sight of one eye.

BROTHERHOOD SUPPER IS WELL ATTENDED

In spite of the blizzard last night the supper sponsored by the Men's Brotherhood of the St. John Evangelical church in the church parlors in Mokena, was quite well attended. After the bountiful repast, a program was presented and a very clever skit entitled "Romance of Hickory Creek" was read by its author, Rev. Wm. Reimann.

Fishing Season Coming Soon

Right now in the midst of a real old fashioned blizzard you may not be thinking of going fishing, but it is a good idea to look around to see where you will be able to buy a fishing pole and other fishing paraphernalia when the fishing season comes around again. This type of merchandise is scarce, but J. J. Cohen the genial manager of the White Store in Joliet forswore this a long time ago and laid in a big supply of this stock and says he can supply the needs of his fishermen friends. Mr. Cohen is an ardent fisherman and has angled the finney tribe from the icecold lakes and streams of Canada to the Gulf of Mexico and the Pacific ocean.

MOKENA PTA KWIZ PROGRAM WINNERS ANNOUNCED

Joan Rueckert, Ursula Thiel and Lester Oley were the winners at the recent PTA KWIZ program. These three students at the Mokena school, submitted the three best questions for the KWIZ. Judges were Mrs. Moody, Nutritionist with the State Department of Public Health, Mrs. Derr, Director of the Dairy Council of the Tri-Cities, and Mr. Robt. Baron, Milk Sanitarian for the Will County Health Dept.

The questions, some submitted in advance, and others asked by the audience, dealt with nutrition and the Grade A Pasteurized Milk Ordinance.

In answering questions about the Milk Ordinance Mr. Baron brought out the fact that it would assure the community a clean, safe milk supply, superior to any other milk supply processed in the county.

"The local milk dealers deserve a vote of thanks" said Mr. Baron, "because they are in favor of the ordinance and have indicated that they will do all that they possibly can to furnish Mokena residents with Grade A pasteurized milk."

Mrs. Derr and Mrs. Moody, answered questions on nutrition.

Two technicolor sound movies were shown to complete the program. "A Guide to Good Eating" brought out in a very entertaining and novel manner the rules of good diet. The second movie, Modern Magic, described the production and pasteurization of Grade A milk and brought out the value of milk in the diet.

It was brought out in this meeting, that Grade A milk is milk which is produced under the Standard Milk Ordinance recommended by the U S Public Health Service. This means that the farms producing Grade A milk must meet definite requirements of cleanliness in producing milk. This Grade A raw milk then receives the process of Pasteurization which assures its

Staff Sgt. R. Gorham Marries Lincoln, Nebraska Girl

Beneath a lighted cross and with pedestal baskets filled with white stock and greenery, and cathedral candles burning in seven-branched candelabra arranged as a background, the marriage of Carol June Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Martin of Lincoln, Neb. and Staff Sgt. Robert Lee Gorham, of Camp Campbell, Kentucky, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Gorham, Lincoln, Neb. was solemnized at Grace Methodist church in that city on Sunday afternoon, February 6 at 3:00 o'clock. The lines of the double ring ceremony were read by the Rev. Donald L. Page, Chaplain at the Lincoln Air Base.

As the guests were assembling, Miss Lois Baker, played a prelude of organ music, including in her group, "Romance" by Rubenstein, "Nautilus" by McDowell, and "At Prayer" by Jackson.

She also accompanied Annamary Lee Biery who sang d'Hardelot's "Because" preceding the ceremony and Carrie Jacobs Bond's "I Love You Truly" during the ceremony. As a processional Miss Baker used the bridal music from Lohengrin, and the Mendelssohn march as a recessional.

Mrs. Robert R. Skinner served her sister as matron of honor. She appeared in a gown of pale blue silk marquisette, fashioned with a fitted bodice of lace and short puffed sleeves. Her bouquet was of Talamas roses.

Sergeant Robert R. Skinner of Camp Butner, North Carolina served as best man. Seating the guests were Miss Jeanne Anderson of Shenandoah, Iowa, Miss Mona Van Camp of Lincoln, and Pfc. David T. Benedetti, Pfc. Robt. A. Haakonson, Cpl. Dale K. Edens, all of the Lincoln Air Base.

The candles were lighted by the bride's brother Mark S. Martin, Jr. Escorted to the altar by her father, who gave her in marriage, the bride wore a gown of white silk marquisette. The bodice of lace with its sweetheart neckline, was fitted and had sleeves that tapered from shoulder fullness to points at the wrist. The full skirt ended in a court train. Her veil of finger tip length was of bridal illusion edged with silk lace and was held to her head with a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and sweet peas. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls with earrings to match, a gift from the groom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held for 150 guests in the church parlors which was appointed with baskets of white stock. The serving table, at which Mrs. Dale Edens and Mrs. Chas. O'Connell presided, was centered with a three tiered wedding cake on either side of which were tall pink tapers in silver candelabra. Pink snapdragons completed the decorations.

Assisting in the serving were Mrs. David Benedetti, Mrs. Robt. Haakonson, Miss Iona Sehnert, Miss Mone Van Camp and Miss Jeanne Anderson.

Mrs. Harry McGrail, Miss Margaret Cook and Miss Marjorie Griffin received the gifts, and Miss Marcella Sehnert had charge of the guest book.

S.Sgt. Gorham and his bride went to Chicago for their honeymoon after which they will reside at Camp Campbell, Ky. Mrs. Gorham's going away costume was a copen blue wool suit with which she wore brown accessories.

S.Sgt. Gorham was formerly a staff photographer of the Lincoln Journal before entering the service. Mrs. Gorham has attended the University of Nebraska.

Out of town guests were Miss Marjorie Carlson of Omaha, Mrs. Aleck Norberg of Funk, Leslie Riley and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Riley and son Harley of Central City.

S. Sgt. Gorham is a grandson of Mrs. Kate Cooper of Mokena and of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gorham of Homer.

World Needs A Lincoln Now

February 12th is another big day in American history for this is the birthday of our Great Abraham Lincoln. The longer times goes on the more we learn to appreciate the great principles expounded by this great American Statesman.

Right now, not only America, but the world in general is in need of a Lincoln, a real statesman in place of the selfish, corrupt politicians who have plunged the world into chaos and a blood bath, the like of which has never been known. We wonder if there are any more Lincolns left in the world or if Providence will ever raise up another Lincoln to lead a war weary world into paths of peace and justice and freedom.

CITIZENS OF GREGORY, S. DAKOTA, BELIEVE 'IT'S TIME TO CHANGE'

Farmers Remember Triple A Benefits but Feel Too Much Centralized Control Is Unhealthy.

By BARROW LYONS

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is one of a series of articles written for this paper by Barrow Lyons, staff correspondent of Western Newspaper Union. He has just completed an extended trip through the nation and in these reports gives his first-hand impressions of what rural America is thinking as we enter the third year of war and the first weeks of a presidential election year. Any opinions expressed are the writer's and not necessarily those of this newspaper.)

GREGORY, S. D.—This is a young town—even as western towns go. It was planted by the government in the heart of the prairie—the country of the Rosebud Sioux Indians—39 years ago when the land was opened to homesteaders. With the exception of the lean years of grasshoppers and drouth, when dust storms obscured the sun, Gregory has thrived. It has a population of 1,400, and is the chief trading center of Gregory county.

Usually, the Republicans have carried the county by a slight majority. In 1924, year of the Coolidge landslide, the GOP got 54 per cent of the votes. Again last year the Republican percentage was the same. But in the first New Deal election Roosevelt left the Republicans only 26 per cent of the vote, and in 1936 42 per cent. But in 1940 the voters veered to the other side, and 53 per cent of the votes were tallied under the Republican emblem.

Even though the people of Gregory dislike many things about the New Deal, they do not forget the years when the Triple A saved them through seed loans, helped them to hold their produce for better prices and brought new ways of farming that made the prairie soil more profitable.

Most of them think today that the time has come for a change. This is true even of some of the most staunch defenders of the New Deal, who feel that the administration is becoming too entrenched in power, too set in its ways, too far away from the people.

Gregory is on the edge of the cattle country, but there is extensive growing of wheat, corn, barley and forage along with cattle, hog and sheep raising.

Here is to be found the conflict of social and political trends that underlie the whole fabric of American politics today—the clash between the conservatives and the liberals—the traditional and the new—those seeking safety and those set for adventure.

Dramatically illustrating this conflict are the views of two men living on farms that are close together, both of whom took up homesteads 39 years ago when the land was opened, both of whom have had their ups and downs, but are today more prosperous than ever before.

One is E. C. Biggins, wheat farmer, who came here from the cattle country along the Missouri Breaks. He knew the Indians, ranches and ran cattle, broke wild horses and played poker. Of him a friend remarked: "He's the kind of man who's always been independent and doesn't want to be told." He doesn't like the New Deal. He is 67 years old, and farms 400 acres.

The other is William Sinkular, who raises cattle, sheep and hogs, and most of the grain which he feeds them. In the last few years he has netted between $12,000 and $15,000 a year from his 1,920 acres. He was the first around Gregory to join the Non-Partisan league, one of the first to speak up for the Roosevelt administration.

"I saw this land come up from nothing. People thought they were making money. A man took a homestead, borrowed money on it and made improvements. They drove the price of land up to where one could mortgage a farm for $10,000 to $12,000.

Rural Credit Took Land by Foreclosure

"Then the deflation came. Steers we thought were worth $50 to $60 dropped to $12 to $14. Rural Credit took land in foreclosure—resold rich farms for $1,500—not a little but a lot of it. When the boom was on we were offered $200 an acre for our land. We saw its value go down to where we couldn't get $10 an acre for it.

"Today we are again in a boom period, but a man who has reason knows he's not really making money. There's nothing that promises you security. The administration has promised good prices for two years, but they can't keep such promises.

"Now I like a Democrat, but I can't stand a New Dealer. They're trying to do all the things that were never thought of before. They're trying to shove this farming back to the birth of Christ. When they begin telling you how much wheat to raise and what to do—wasn't that what they did in Egyptian times?"

"I grew up right beside the Sioux Indians. They'd come in on butchering day and pick up scraps, but they'd never work. The New Dealers, most of them around here, are just like that. The administration tried to rehabilitate them, but they won't rehabilitate, most of them."

Educational Program Helped Country

Now let "Bill" Sinkular state his case:

"The New Deal—not the whole setup—gave the farmer an educational program that's been a life saver for this country. In 1934 this country was a desert. It had been ruined by dust storms and drouth. In 1934 I received $1,800 for seed, and it saved my farm.

"But I don't think all the subsidies they are paying out now are necessary. All that money that's being paid out now to farmers who are prospering must be paid in by somebody. I don't think the subsidies are an attempt to buy votes; but the farmers themselves should know that inflation won't do them any good.

"Many farmers would take anything they could get hold of, and yet these same men are the greatest enemies of the New Deal—the men who have profited most from it." H. E. McKee, vice president and director of the Northwest Security National bank, and manager of the Gregory Branch, strongly supports this anti-inflation point of view. He has seen the deposits in his branch mount from $751,000 at the end of 1941 to $1,830,000 today, and in the same period has seen loans decline from $694,000 to $430,000. Farmer-speculators are buying up the land today at prices that are too high, he declares.

"In the last year," he said, "the Regional Agricultural Credit corporation has been lending money to anyone who would take care of more livestock to increase the meat supply. In 1940 there were 1,632,000 head of cattle in the county. Today there are more than three million head. It is the same with sheep and hogs; and it is about the same in other Western states.

"What we are doing is laying up an enormous surplus on the farms. If they let this go on for another two or three years it will wreck farming. We'll have the same condition that occurred after the last war."

As Gregory, South Dakota, Views It . . .

Listen to farmer E. C. Biggins: "Today many farmers around here are spreading themselves too far—buying too many steers, sheep, hogs at prices that are too high. One friend of mine during the last boom kept gathering land at $135 an acre. He was counting his chips before he cashed in.

"Now when they started the Non-

Partisan league, this friend was one of the first to fall into that; and he swallowed all their radical ideas. He boomed up that outfit, and stuck with them for several years. Well, when he saw all the things that weren't right with those boys the tears ran down his cheeks. It was dissatisfaction with the Non-Partisan league that made the people around here fall into the Democratic basket.

FOREWORD

SINCE Lieutenant Colonel Frank Kurtz and the other members of the crew of the Swoose, who furnished the material for this story, are as modest as they are brave, they asked me to point out that this does not pretend to be a complete history of the air force in the Southwest Pacific war, or even of the achievements of the flying fortresses in those islands.

After they had read my completed story, they insisted that many men who did as much or more in this war as they, are mentioned here only casually or not at all. These omissions were necessary because I wished to build the story on personal narratives, confining it wherever possible to what these five men had seen and felt, so in fairness to them it should be judged only on that basis.

But within these limitations we have striven for accuracy. Consequently I am proud that Lieutenant General George H. Brett, who is one of the ablest of that small group of officers who pioneered air power in the American army and who, soon after the original debacle on Clark Field, took command of the Far Eastern air forces and in six months laid the foundations for our eventual Pacific victory, could, after reading the manuscript, write me that "as far as memory serves, the incidents you described of operations in Java and Australia are historically correct."

W. L. WHITE.

CHAPTER I

The grizzled old Flying Fortress stood on the runway of an American airfield, presently to depart for another continent and another war zone. Those scratches on her running gear were made by sand grains of Wake Island when she was on her way to the Far East before the war. That little dent on her wing was made by a spent-bomb fragment the day the war began, when the Japanese destroyed all but a very few of our Far Eastern Air Force on Clark Field in the Philippines. She was one of those few. The battle paint on her wings was later blistered by the sun in the high skies over Java, and still later nicked by sandstorms over the Australian desert.

Of the very few to escape Clark Field, she is the only one to come home, and now, her guns removed, she is an old war horse turned out to pasture, the transport plane of a three-star general of the American Air Force.

Lieutenant General George H. Brett, USA, who until recently commanded the Far Eastern skies for the United Nations.

On her side is a jaunty emblem daubed there by the hand of some boy, unknown now and probably dead—the outline of a mishapen bird "The Swoose"—"half swan and half goose"—taken from a jingle, and beneath it the skeptical legend "It Flies?"

It did, for countless thousands of miles through cloud canyons and over oceans and islands of the war zone, and now in the shade of her wing sit six who have a story to tell. The pilot is standing. He is Frank Kurtz, who has been three times a member of the championship American Olympic Team as a high diver, who a year ago was a lieutenant in the 19th Bombardment Group, and who now holds the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Silver Star, and is a lieutenant colonel at thirty-one.

The others are Margo, his pretty, blonde, blue-eyed wife; Captain Harry Schriber, his black-eyed, black-haired navigator; Master Sergeant Charlie Reeves, his bombardier; Master Sergeant Rowland Boone, his gunner; and Master Sergeant "Red" Varner, the merriest embalmer in the Air Corps, who a few years ago ran a comfortable little undertaking parlor out on the Coast.

"Red" is now crew chief of the Swoose, and lords it over the ground crews who swarm over her to check her engines when she hits the ground. He brings hot coffee and sandwiches to her pilot and passengers when she is aloft, and it was his duty in Java and Australia to steal anything from a carburetor to a roasting chicken necessary to keep the General comfortable and the Swoose in the air. But this is getting ahead of the story.

Since this was written, all the master sergeants of the Swoose crew have been commissioned.

Meanwhile Frank, the pilot, paces up and down. It isn't easy for him to begin. Few things have been easy for Frank Kurtz. It wasn't easy as a boy, when he earned his living selling papers on the streets of Kansas City. It wasn't easy later to leave home when he was fourteen because he had decided to become an Olympic platform diver and there was a famous instructor on the Coast the boy hoped he could persuade to coach him. He did persuade him, but it wasn't easy to earn his way through Hollywood High School while he took the training. Before leaving him, Frank had decided to become a pilot. He'll tell you it's so much like diving—all you need is perfect balance and timing and control; yet it wasn't easy to take those many hours of flying lessons, or later to win the Junior World's Landplane Speed Record, or to work his way through college and marry so popular and pretty a girl as Margo, or to learn to fly the Army way at Randolph Field.

All of it was hard, and Frank is never quite satisfied, because he's sure, looking back, that they all could have been done maybe a little better or at least a little quicker if he'd only worked harder; so naturally he's modest about them.

"I don't know where it begins," he said. "Maybe with the Swoose. Yet she wasn't my plane at the very first. I think it begins with Old 99, my very first plane, and with old Tex, (Lieutenant Arthur Edward Gary,) my co-pilot, and the rest of my crew, that I saw lying there on Clark Field—eight in a line.

"Maybe it begins with Old 99 and those eight in a line, lying so still, and it was such a bright, sunny day, and so quiet after the Jap bombers left.

"You see, on the morning war began Old 99 was clear down at the other end of the field, out of sight beyond the hump in the runway, and my crew was waiting with her, keeping her all warmed for the takeoff while I went to lunch and to the pilots' meeting.

The grizzled old Flying Fortress stood on the runway.

"I was to have bicycled over to them, and we were to have taken off for Formosa, to take pictures of what the Japs were doing.

"I had finished lunch when the first wave hit. After that I had to stay in the foxhole for about an hour while they strafed the field. But when the fighters left, I jumped on my bike and rode down the runway through the smoke of the other burning Fortresses, to see what had happened to Old 99.

"Only if I begin here, maybe nobody would understand what his plane and his crew means to a pilot; that it's like his home and his family. Boys you've lived with and worked with for months. Your life has depended on them and their lives on you. And you've seen the pictures of their wives or girls, and know just where they carry them in their wallets, and how proud they are of them, and you've told them about your wife, and they know what you hope for in the future, and what you haven't told them you know they've guessed, and the same with you about them.

"And the plane—it isn't something that belongs to the Government with a number; it's Old 99, the beautiful new Flying Fortress that belongs to you. It's more than your home—it's, well, a kind of a sweetheart. All of you picked her up off the assembly line at the Boeing plant where she was born—a beautiful, smooth, shining, naked thing. Then all of you took her up over the clouds and wrapped that beautiful blue star-spangled gown of the skies around her, which is the way every Fortress ought to be dressed, because they're the Queens of the high skies.

"And you're so damn proud of her, all of you—knowing you're flying a Fortress, which everybody admits is the best ship in the business. So there isn't anything any of you won't do—pilots and greaseballs of the ground crew alike—to keep her polished and adjusted and ticking like the high-precision watch she was when you got her.

"Well, as I said, there was a rise in the runway, and as I pedaled up it, for a minute I was afraid what I would see, looking ahead. But then my heart suddenly gave a big pound, because there was Old 99's vertical stabilizer—the big curve of her tail rising high like a game salmon's tail fin—gleaming above the runway; so I pumped the bike a few times more, being thankful it was a good American bike I'd bought off a fighter pilot instead of the junky Jap copies that are so cheap in Manila, only, my God, then—just then—

"I don't know whether I got off the bike at that point or not. Or fell off it. Or rode on a while, and then left it lying by the runway. All I can remember is how Old 99 looked and, a little later, walking over the field, slowly, toward her; afraid to come too close, too fast. Think about it not as a plane that has burned, or even your own house, but like it was a good friend burned up. And all that is left is that tall silver tail still up in the air, not even scorched or smoke-stained, and I am walking over the field toward her.

"Her poor old ribs black, twisted now; and with the aluminum skin melted off them so her carcass is naked, and you can see right through into the pilot's compartment, and the seats where I sat, and good old Tex, my co-pilot, right beside me. And my control wheel, and my two sets of pedals, and the duplicate set for Tex, only all melted or twisted with the heat—even the wall bracket where the coffee thermos used to hang is still there, only all twisted. And her four motors tumbled forward out of their nacelles in her crumpled wings onto the ground—everything about Old 99 still there, only melted and bent and ruined and her back sagging and broken, like you would take a delicate silver flying fish between your fists and break its back and drop it on the ground to die.

"Everything there, only something else, too. And I couldn't make out what it was. Yet I must have guessed. Because I began to feel sick at my heart and my stomach when I saw that curious, half-burned bundle of something lying there under the crumpled wing, and as I got closer I couldn't even deny to myself what it was. One of my crew. Lying under there. And right beside him another. Poor faithful boys, following orders, staying loyally by Old 99 even in the face of the advancing Japanese bomb pattern across the field like a hailstorm—and under the plane's crumpled belly still another, and under the tail our little Dodson—he must have run under there for shelter, and Old 99's tail settled down on him as her back girders melted when she burned. But only after I had walked around the tail could I see the eight in a line.

"There they were, lying so very still on this beautiful quiet day, my eight boys of Old 99's crew in a senseless, irregular line toward the woods, to which they had been running for shelter when they all had been killed at once, and left sprawling as they died.

"I remember standing there by the tail and counting—one, two, three, in that line and so on up to eight, toward the woods—my boys and each one I knew. Standing there, I could see it but not realize it even though I knew it—knew which ones would have their wives' and girls' crumpled pictures in their pockets. I knew they were dead now, and I started walking down that irregular line of men who had been running toward the woods, and then very suddenly it began to get me. For a while I don't know what I did. Then I remember going along the line from one to the other, talking to each the way I always would, and patting him on the shoulder like he were alive, because for me they weren't dead yet. And crying. And I'm not ashamed of that.

"Talking to each, from good old Sergeant Burgess, who was nearest the plane, on down the irregular line to dear old Tex at the very end, with all his clothes torn off by the blast. I recognized his shoulders. They were a fighter's big broad shoulders—Tex had been boxing champion of Texas A. & M.

"So maybe for me it begins when I got to where Tex was lying, and sat down by him to talk to him over, lifting his curly head with one hand and patting his hairy back with the other. It was still soft and warm. It wasn't a body yet. It was Tex himself at the end of that sprawling line. I told him I didn't know why this had happened any more than he did. But they could trust me to find out, so it would never happen again. But regardless of that, he must understand this wasn't the end.

JESUS ON THE MOUNTAIN AND IN THE VALLEY

LESSON TEXT—Mark 9:2-8, 17-27.
GOLDEN TEXT—I believe; help thou mine unbelief.—Mark 9:24.

The vision of the mountain top prepares the believer for service down in the valley. "Where there is no vision the people perish," said the wise man of old (Prov. 29:18). For want of a true vision of God, a knowledge of His truth, and the God-given constraint which makes men give themselves in sacrificial service, the people will perish in their sins.

But let men come to know the truth as it is in Christ, learn to know Him as the Son of God glorious and powerful, and then let them translate their knowledge of Christian truth and their personal spiritual experiences into the daily ministry to the needs of their fellow men, and there will be songs of salvation and joy.

I. Knowing (vv. 2-7).

The transfiguration of Christ doubtless meant much to Him in preparation for His coming death and resurrection. It was a foregleam of His kingdom glory.

In this lesson we are concerned with the experience of the disciples rather than the feelings of our Lord. Fundamental in both Christian life and service is a clear understanding of the person and work of Christ. One may come to Christ knowing little more than that He is the divine Saviour, and one may enter into Christian living with a meager knowledge of the doctrines of the Bible. But the Christian who fails to grow in knowledge will not grow in grace as he should.

God sets no premium on ignorance, in fact it is quite evident that the great blight on the Christian church today is the appalling lack of understanding of God's Word.

The disciples came to a fuller conviction that He was the Son of God as they saw Him transfigured and heard the Father say, "This is my beloved Son." They learned more plainly the truth of His coming death for the sins of all mankind. They saw in the indescribable beauty of that moment the foregleam of His coming glory. What important truths these are—His deity—His redemption—His coming kingship. Do we have a clear grasp of these truths? If not, let us search the Scriptures.

II. Growing (v. 8).

"Jesus only." He filled their vision and their hearts. They had made spiritual progress as they had seen His glory and heard the commanding voice of the Father.

Great experiences of spiritual renewing and power are necessary to effective life and testimony. They may not be in outward manifestation, in fact they are more often in the inner recesses of the soul; but they transform men and send them forth to magnificent living for God. One wonders if much of the dearth of power in the Christian church is not to be attributed directly to the lack of such experiences with God.

The disciples had an unforgettable mountaintop experience. Even so have many others found the secret of power.

Let us remember that such privileges are not reserved for a few, they are the birthright of every Christian. Power without knowledge is a dangerous and destructive thing, but knowledge without power is a dead thing.

Let us study God's Word, but let the truth be baptized in the overflowing spiritual power of a personal experience with God.

In regeneration all that Christ is and has for us is made available. If we have not taken out our inheritance let us do it at once.

III. Serving (vv. 17-27).

One of the lessons that seems hard to learn and to keep constantly effective in the life of a Christian is that mountaintop experiences of spiritual uplift are not an end in themselves, but a preparation for service. All too often we come to regard such times of peculiar blessing, whether in the privacy of our own room or in the great conference of Christian workers, as something which should glow warmly in our own hearts, making us glad in the Lord, and not as a preparation for ministry to others.

Jesus and the disciples went up to the place of prayer, into the place of glory, and down to the place of service. How fitting is that sequence.

Much confusion exists in the church because those who have foolishly abandoned God's Word and substituted the energy of the flesh for spiritual power have been most diligent in service to humanity; while those who know and accept the truth about Christ, and who profess to believe in the power of the Spirit-filled life, have failed to serve their needy neighbors.

"But Jesus took him by the hand and lifted him up" (v. 27). Verses 28 and 29 indicate that the disciples might have done the same by believing prayer.

COLOR is important in making harmonious rooms from odds and ends, and nature is the best source for color inspiration. The soft golden color of wheat, the orange-red of poppies and the blue of cornflowers were worked into the charming applique design you see here over the desk. This needlework picture was made in a few hours with scraps of gingham and bits of embroidery thread.

Stretched over a piece of cardboard to fit an unused picture frame this piece of applique work became the keynote for the interior.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

You can add a cute note to your skirt by cutting out musical notes from odd pieces of felt and sewing them around the hem. Or one applied on your sweater will make a nice conversation piece too.

Mix plaster of paris with vinegar instead of water and it will not harden so quickly when you are filling in cracks and holes in plaster.

A sharp knife, rinsed in hot water, will do a good job of cutting cake and keeping neat cake and frosting edges.

Rayon fabrics must be handled carefully when wet. When dry, rayon regains its strength.

If it is difficult to make wallpaper stick to chimney, ceilings or walls, apply a coat of aluminum paint before papering. Then the wallpaper will not crack or come loose.

Men Hatch Eggs

Eggs of a special breed of duck in China are hatched by "human incubators," men who carry the eggs in nets around their waists. The first period of incubation is taken care of by the mother fowl, but for the last three days before the ducklings poke their beaks through the shells men carry the eggs.

This is supposed to improve the quality of the bird, which makes a famous dish known as "Peking duck."

Tinley Park News

The Junior American Legion Aux. Unit 615, Tinley Park, will have a Valentine party in combination with their regular meeting Monday evening, Feb. 14 at the home of Mrs. Trudie Swished. There will be a Valentine box and all Junior Auxiliary members are urged to attend.

One young man from Tinley Park qualified last week for Army Aviation Cadet training with the Air Forces, according to Capt. F. A. Wilgus, president of the Army Aviation Cadet Examining Board at 166 W. Van Buren St. Chicago.

The future pilot, bombardier or navigator for Uncle Sam is John Bellante, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Bellante of Tinley.

Young men 17 years old are not called for active training until they are 18, Capt. Wilgus pointed out. Until called to active duty, they serve in the Air Corps enlisted Reserve and wear a small pair of blue and silver wings upon their civilian clothing.

Seventeen year olds are invited to come to our offices and have the advantages of Army Aviation Cadet Training pointed out to them, the Captain said. "If they knew all about our program, they'd waste no time seeing if they qualify. And its easy to qualify—all you need is an average mind and a healthy body.

John attends Thornton high school where he is active in football and the Glee club. His hobby is Model Making. He has a brother Art who also is in the war.

LET'S BUY MORE BONDS

So you think this war is about end, That the enemy's white flag is just around the bend, Now listen, my friend, what I have to say And go buy an EXTRA War bond today.

Let's not squawk about rationed gas and tires, We're still warm and comfortable around home fires, We have plenty to eat-free water to drink, We're not wallowing around in filth and stink.

We're not facing a tank or hand grenade, Do you think our boys are on dress parade?

They're GIVING their life and limb for you While you're lending your money, at a profit, too.

Our boys are putting up a terrible fight, You think a bayonet is a pretty sight

Hold by a Jap and dripping red With the blood of a buddy who lies there dead?

Thousands of Japs on land, in the air, Do you mean to say that you don't care

For the boys who are dying out there alone, Yes, dying for us back here at home.

Then there's the Navy, a brave bunch of men, You ever heard tell that any of them

Have shirked, while torpedo, bomb and shell Their ship into a fiery hell?

Doctors and Nurses, our Chaplains and all, God bless them, they've answered our Nation's call,

Let's give them the medicines and Sulpha drugs To help them save lives and fight gangrene bugs.

Now listen, YOU let's buy MORE Bonds today And back our boys the AMERICAN way;

You buy some shells and I'll buy a bomb So our boys and girls can COME HOME TO "MOM".

Here is a letter from Lt. W. H. Kuester who is somewhere in Africa Dear Folks:

Had a big surprise yesterday having received 5 letters from you and 20 from Kay in California. I guess my mail will be catching up with me now. But only had one package so far. We guys were just talking about how terrible it must be for you folks at home to have to put butter on your bread before you eat it or even eat bread. And I don't see how you can eat fresh eggs, and have to miss these good dehydrated ones. Also mom how awful it must be to go to bed in a house and not in a tent like mine and when a storm comes up everything blows away. And to go into a tub filled with nice warm water when you take a bath. I take my bath in my helmet half full of cold water. Ha ha. Some humor eh?

Well I am healthy and a little bit happy since I got some mail. Write often Mom.

Your Son,

Lt. W. H. Kuester, APO 520 care Postmaster, New York.

Letters from our boys:

I know this is rather late to thank you for that nice Christmas box which I received from the service club, but I want you to know I sure did appreciate the gift. It sure comes in handy when a person is so far from home.

I am in Camp Callan, which is about 13 miles from San Diego, California. It sure is a beautiful camp, right on the edge of the Pacific Ocean.

I am one of the best K. P's you ever saw so when I get home, the women of Mokena won't have to worry about washing dishes as I'll take over that chore myself.

This camp is the Anti-Aircraft which consists of searchlights and machine guns, it is supposed to be one of the best in the U.S.A.

They sure do treat a soldier swell and eats are wonderful, we have pie and ice cream almost every day, so you see a soldier treated like this can't condemn the army.

I will be through my training in 15 more weeks, then maybe I will be moved closer to home, at least I hope so.

I received my share of letters every day but can stand a few more. So if any of you Mokena friends wish to drop me a line, I sure would appreciate it. So will close until next time. Thanking you again.

I remain,
Pvt. Philip C. Hacker, 36779259
Btry A, 51st A. A. R. T. C. -Bn,
Camp Callan, California

This is to thank you for the package received at Christmas.

I'm sorry I delayed so long expressing my gratitude for your thoughtfulness but I have been very busy the past few weeks.

Everything was very useful and I'm glad to be included in your list of servicemen to whom these gifts are sent. Sincerely,

Pfc. William S. Calden, Jr.,
San Diego, California.

I want to express to the Women's service club of Mokena, my sincere thanks for the very excellent Christmas box which I received from them at Christmas.

Naturally I had plenty of assistance from my mates. When the box was opened there were innumerable expressions of amazement at the size and selection of gifts in the box. Sometime has passed since then, and in the meantime I have had many occasions to use what I received. If every other service man from Mokena received the same gift, I am sure that they will all be in saying that the Mokena Women's service club is on the ball which is a favorite expression in the Navy to indicate that one is operating with 100% efficiency.

Thanks again, and here's hoping that you can continue the fine work you are doing as long as the need exists. Kindly convey my regards to each of the women individually.

Sincerely,
Thomas P. Powers, Sr.,
A. S. Great Lakes, Illinois.

Hawaiian Islands

Feb. 1, 1944

Mr. Wm. Semmler and Aux. of Wm. Martin Post of VFW:

Dear Sir:
I would have written to you sooner but have been rather busy so I thought of it today when I got the Mokena News Bulletin which I enjoy reading very much as it brings me a lot of news from my home town.

I was just reading the Babson forecasts for 1944, which was in the December 31st issue of the Bulletin. If everything turns out according to it we should all be home before long, which I think everybody wishes.

The Hawaiian Islands is a nice place to be. I have been to Honolulu and Pearl Harbor and Waikiki Beach, and also Hickam Field. Waikiki Beach is a very interesting place to go. Especially watching the natives ride the breakers.

Will close at this time. My present address is: Pfc. Carl M. Ginder care Postmaster, San Francisco. Cal

We do OUR BEST WORK on Both Fronts

Practically all new telephone equipment now being made is for war—special instruments for planes, tanks, ships and field systems.

Yet, in the face of critical shortages of materials, we have been able to stretch existing facilities to give most people normal service.

If you could spend a week with an Illinois Bell repair man, you'd see many amazing ways of "making it do." You'd see how we use plastics, glass, wood and leather, to replace tin, aluminum, rubber and other war-needed materials.

He'd tell you that many worn parts and pieces are reconditioned to serve "like new." He'd show you new devices invented under the pressure of war to cut down wastes and keep up the service.

Telephone people are working as a team to give you all the service there is! And they intend to stay at that job, regardless of difficulties.

TAKE CARE

ELECTRIC APPLIANCES... THEY'RE SCARCE IN WARTIME

I get better service from my electric washer by following these suggestions

1. Follow manufacturer's instructions on how much clothing your washer should hold.
2. Rinse wringer rolls and wipe dry. When not in use, always release pressure on wringer rolls, so they will not become flat on one side. If your washer has a spinner dryer, clean it with fresh water, rinse, wipe with a dry cloth after each day's washing.
3. Put enough hot water in to fill it to the waterline after clothes are in.
4. Be careful not to chip or crack porcelain. Chipped spots may rust and stain clothing.
5. Fill the tub with fresh, clean water after washing. Remove and rinse agitator or suction cups. If your washer has a pump or lint trap, run water through it until it is cleaned. Then drain washer and rinse tub thoroughly. When all water has run out of tub, wipe dry with a soft cloth to remove any soap or lint.
6. Never allow dry suds to remain in washer.
7. Have a serviceman inspect your washer occasionally. Follow manufacturer's recommendations on lubrication.
8. Connecting cord should be wiped dry after disconnecting and put loosely in tub. Some washers are provided with hooks on which to wind cord.
9. If motor fails to start, disconnect current promptly, or you may damage your washer. If motor gets wet, dry it immediately, but disconnect first! Do not run motor while wet.

News from the bowling fronts. In the southern zone, the V-Eighters scored an overwhelming victory when they defeated the Paperhangers in two battles. The V-Eighters missed delivering a knockout blow by eight pins in the second battle because their heavy guns were shooting out of range. In the final battle, the V-Eighters had the moral support of their good allies for the night the Oilers, Bankers and Robins including chief propagandist Charlie Burkhardt who completely demoralized the big siege guns, namely: Rudy Marshke, Andy Bueschel, John Scarth, and George Rinke of the Paperhangers.

On the central front the Robins bombarded the Bankers for two games. Wally Meeks was the big gun in this battle with a 218 game.

On the northern sector, the Oilers lasted the Smokers for two games with Charlie Burkhardt as chief gunner with a 233 game.

Gus Braun received a letter from Eddie Tierney who is stationed at Mare Island, California. Herewith is a paragraph as quoted by Eddie, "I get the home town paper every week as I follow up the bowling teams, what is the matter with Braun's Recreation? has your team wooden arms?" Well Eddie all the good arms are in the armed forces and we all are waiting for you fellows to come back to bolster up our league. Say fellows, how about dropping your bowling news correspondent. Al Sorensen a line and let him know if you like to have more news or if there is any questions you like answered. We have a league of thirty men and they should be able to answer any questions that come up.

Next Monday night the V-Eighters play the Bankers, the Paperhangers vs Smokers, and Oilers vs Robins.

Following is a complete list of Red Cross Blood donors who have contributed to the Mobile unit in Joliet, Ill. We regret there has been a great delay in publishing this list but these donors must be checked by the Chicago Chapter and then re-checked by the Will County chapter before being sent on the branches.

2nd time Donors: Lydia Baudry, Mrs. Elsie Bennett, Geo. Bennett, Chas. Burkhardt, Albert Cappel, Mrs. Dell Rabinov, Mrs. Alice Rauch, Mrs. Francis Ragen, Homer Sabin, Mrs. Helen Sippel, Howard Strassenberg, Mrs. Inez Werner.

First time donors: Mrs. Irene Benson, John J. Brock, Mrs. Virginia Colclasure, Luella Cappel, Mrs. Mary Clark, Mrs. Mildred Cooper, Everett Cooper Jr., Mrs. Helen Egerton, Mrs. Irma Geuther, Mrs. Alice Homering, Mrs. Paul Kessler, Mrs. Lydia Kohl, Karl George Lauffer, Mrs. Lillian Marti Robt. Maue, Mrs. Katherine McGregg, Mrs. Wilhelmina Muehler, Mrs. Mable Nelson, Martin Smith, Mrs. Eleanor Spiess. There are other residents of the Village and near vicinity who have donated to the Red Cross and we are glad to add their names to the Honor Roll:

Mr. Robert Gaddis, 6 donations; Mrs. Robt. Gaddis, 2 donations; Mrs. Charlotte Gilmore, 1; Mr. Robt. Gilmore, 3; Mrs. Florence

Steele; 1. Mr. Arthur Shoop, 1. Mrs. Lillian Waring, 1.

Many other people volunteered to make a donation but were rejected because of recent colds or some other reason by the Staff who believed it was for the good of the prospective donor, not because their blood was not acceptable to make plasma.

This is an Honor Roll of which Mokena can be proud about for it would never have existed if the people of the community had not volunteered their blood, believing in the motto: "A pint of blood may Save a Life".

Sewing Report

At the time the other production units of Red Cross made the reports of accomplishments during 1943, it was impossible to give a report of the sewing done and we now are glad to report the following: A total of 105 garments including hospital shirts, men's pajamas; boys shirts, children's snow suits rompers; pinafores and blouses were turned in by 18 workers who gave 585 hours of volunteer service. This is a fine record as during the Spring and summer months the sewing was not heavy, therefore it was pushed very much throughout the county.

Mrs. Alma Steen is busy again giving out kit bags to be made for the Red Cross and by whom the bags are distributed to each man as he embarks for overseas duty. This is a special request received by the Will County office last week from the Headquarters in St. Louis.

Therefore many women have responded generously and are very busy getting the necessary sewing done so Will County will be able to ship hundreds of these kits within the next few weeks.

—Mrs. R. McGuire, Chr.

SERVICEMEN'S COLUMN

I wish to thank you so very much for the nice Xmas box you sent me. I did not open it until Xmas, not because I wasn't anxious to know what was in it, but because it is just tradition. (Even my wife couldn't entice me to open it and that's something!)

Everything will come in mighty handy and everything was certainly wrapped nicely. It certainly gives one a nice feeling to know that the folks back home are thinking about you. I know that the efforts you women put forth is not in vain.

I remain,

John P. Marti; M-1c, Mare Island, Cal.

IN MEMORIAM

SPIESS—PETER. In memory of my father who passed away 15 years ago on Feb. 13, 1929. Today recalls a memory

Of a loved one gone to rest
And those who think of him today.
Are the ones who loved him best.
He is gone but not forgotten
His face we long to see,
And some day we hope to meet him
Just across the golden sea.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

Spotlight on GRANTLAND RICE

SECRETARY KNOX of the navy recently advocated a plan for the training and development of our youth along competitive lines, including a year's compulsory military service for those of 17 or 18 years. This is an essential plan that can't be overlooked.

While military training can't be started before 17 or 18, we still believe that there should be a big advance along the lines of body building and competitive sports at younger ages, including those 14 and 15 years old, who in too many cases today are overlooked.

These young boys deserve a far better program through their schools or from their communities than they have ever received.

"The time to start with these boys," Hurry-Up Yost once told me after thirty years' experience, "is in the high schools—not in the colleges. We need boys coming on with stronger legs and stronger bodies, boys much better physically equipped in the mass."

One thing is sure—there will be a big demand for high-school talent in our colleges next fall, so far as football is concerned.

High School Stars

"Football will be almost entirely the development of high-school players," Frank Leahy of Notre Dame told me. "I think it would surprise many millions if they know how many kids of 17, just out of school, carried on so brilliantly this last season. Tulsa's 147-pound Ford was just one of them. They were in Indiana, Ohio State, Pittsburgh—all over our football map—tearing into veterans who outweighed them 20 or 30 pounds—and holding their own. Passers, runners, kickers, blockers—all steaming with spirit. And just out of high school."

"These are the kids we must depend on next season for our college football. And we'll all get our share. It may not be the greatest football season ever known, but it will be full of fire and action and excitement, played by boys on their way to war."

Frank Leahy might have mentioned a kid named Kelly on his own squad, a 17-year-old Chicago high-school entry who was one of the best backs of the year.

He might have mentioned Glenn Davis of West Point who came to the Army with only high-school experience—or Bill Paschal from Georgia Tech, the best running back of the pro year with the New York Giants—five minutes freshman experience.

There is one weakness in this set-up. This is the pressure that is sure to be put upon high-school talent, the 17-year-old entries, all over the United States. I have already watched the beginning of this operation get its start.

As a guess I'd say the best school football state in the country is Texas. They are thicker than quail in that state. The next entry is Ohio. Pennsylvania, Minnesota and California are close up.

New England isn't so bad, either. In fact New England has given the game more than her share of high-school stars.

What about the South? They are more scattered down around cottonland. Too many southern schools lack the coaching and the money that other sections have. The material is there, but a lot of it is still in the raw. Ask southern college coaches.

The same is true in New York city, where the high-school kids get only half a chance. Don't ever believe these New York kids couldn't hold their own if they ever had an equal break.

The idea is to get back of high-school or school football and give it a much bigger play and a much better chance than it has known so far.

As the Army doesn't seem to be interested, this is another spot where Navy Secretary Frank Knox can do a world of good.

How It Looks for Baseball

On a recent trip through the South and Southeast, one of the first queries offered was this—

"What will happen to pro baseball in 1944?"

There was only one answer to this: "It all depends on the progress of the war and the size of the casualty list."

The coming invasion of Hitler's Europe will supply most of the story. A German collapse would make a terrific difference, more to the lives of our fighters, but also in a minor way to all sport. But Germany hasn't collapsed yet.

Admitting that all professional sport is a pin point in importance against the needs of war, only a German collapse at the rim of spring would help baseball. By April or early May there will be too many taken if the war is still setting the same furious pace. And none of these could be turned back in time.

Farm Topics

Pigs Need Minerals For Healthy Growth

Rock Phosphate, Hay Help Supply Elements

The amount of pork produced by a certain given quantity of feed will depend on how well balanced the feed is, says F. H. Smith, nutritionist with the animal industry department of the North Carolina State college experiment station.

He points out that the feed should contain protein of good quality, carbohydrates, minerals and vitamins, and that it should be properly fed for maximum pork production.

"The practice of many farmers in confining their pigs to floored pens and feeding them rations composed chiefly of grains brings about mineral deficiencies," says Smith. "In some cases, after two or three months of such feeding, the pigs have difficulty in getting up and walking to the feed trough."

He recommends that the pigs be given a mineral mixture of equal parts of ground phosphate, steamed bone meal or defluorinated phosphate, and common salt. This mixture may be left so that the pigs may take it at will. For self-feeding, the mineral mixture is made more tempting by mixing a pound of tankage or meat scrap to nine pounds of the mixture.

"Grains may also be supplemented with a good grade of legume hay at the rate of 5 to 10 per cent for fattening hogs, and 10 to 15 per cent for sows and boars," Smith says. He points out that sun-cured hay is more effective than artificially cured hay because it contains more vitamin D.

Sun-cured, legume hay provides good protein, calcium, phosphorus, and other necessary minerals and vitamins. One of the best legume hays is alfalfa—which produces high quality mineral feed supplement, in large yield per acre.

Alfalfa can be grown on any moderately heavy, well-drained, and fertile upland soils. It is not suited to bottom soils because it gets "wet feet" when the water table is high. It must be grown on good land because it is not a "poor land" crop.

Electric Pig-Brooder Can Be Easily Made at Home

Many thousands of baby pigs die annually from cold during their first critical weeks. Keeping pigs healthy and comfortable is the first big step toward a larger winter pork crop. An electric brooder will keep the little animals warm and cozy. If you cannot buy one, you can easily make one at a cost of $2 to $3.

All you need to do is to build a low ceiling in one corner of the shed. You cut a hole in the ceiling and set a big electric bulb with a reflector over the hole. The heat of the light warms the little pigs sufficiently to keep them healthy.

Electric Brooder

 1—200 watt bulb for cold weather.

Destroying Rats

County agricultural agents have recently pointed out means of killing or starving rats, to prevent feed waste, and to save money as well as feed. Each rat can do $4 to $50 worth of damage in a year, so it is worth a little effort to destroy him now.

Rural Briefs

The Argentine is producing 312 million bushels of wheat as compared with 235 million last year, according to preliminary forecasts.

The department of agriculture has announced a 1944 program for winter cover crop seed which will support prices on hairy vetch, common vetch, crimson clover, and rye grass seeds at levels from 5 to 40 per cent higher than last year.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

SIGNIFICANCE OF RUSSIAN BLAST

Members of the diplomatic corps who have lived beside Russia and dealt with her diplomats for years point to some significant things about the Pravda report which set the world on its ear about the British negotiating a separate peace with Nazi Foreign Minister Ribbentrop.

In the first place, diplomats point out that, had the report been published in Izvestia, it would have been much more serious. Izvestia is the organ of the Soviet government, and anything appearing therein can be considered the gospel views of the Kremlin itself.

However, Pravda, organ of the Communist party, is one step removed, and anything published in it can be interpreted as close to but not necessarily representing the views of Stalin.

Thus, it was Pravda which dropped a ton of editorial bricks on the unsuspecting, well-intentioned head of Wendell Willkie, hitherto considered Russia's best friend. That editorial rebuke came after Willkie had discussed the Polish boundary question—in a manner quite sympathetic to Russia.

However, the Russians chose to rebuke their best friend as a warning to President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull that they did not want the Polish question discussed at all—not even by their friends. They could not very well come out and rebuke Hull and Roosevelt, so they chose a prominent American, one step removed, figuring Hull and Roosevelt would take the hint.

Therefore, remembering that Russian diplomatic moves are usually aimed obliquely at something on the other side of the billiard table, here is the diplomatic corps' explanation of the latest Pravda thrust against the British.

For about two years, it has been no secret that the British have hung back regarding a second front in western Europe. It is also no secret that, right down to the Teheran conference, Churchill pulled for a Balkan front or almost any other front except a western front.

PUTTING BRITISH ON SPOT

Stalin is a man who never forgets and, even if no friction had occurred at Teheran, he would have continued to be suspicious about British intentions of a second front, in view of the two years of second front debate. And on top of Teheran, plus Churchill's long stay in Africa, Stalin's suspicions may be boiling again.

Therefore, point out the diplomats, what could be more adroit than to put the British squarely on the spot by subtly accusing them of talking to the Nazis about a separate peace? In other words, after the Pravda article, the British now have to prove they want no separate peace by pushing ahead with the second front. If they delay it, then the Russians can point to the suspicion—no matter how untrue—that perhaps the British were talking to Ribbentrop after all—which, of course, they weren't.

The Pravda publication fits in, especially at this time, when there actually have been some hints in official circles that the Russians are doing so well that the Nazis will surrender soon, then we wouldn't need a second front.

It's complicated, but the Russian mind is complicated, and Russian diplomacy even more so.

SOFTENING CASUALTY MESSAGES

The war department has received many letters recently from ministers and private families, suggesting that, instead of sending casualty messages by telegram to bereaved families, they be sent to a committee of pastors in each community, one of whom would then deliver the message and seek to soften the blow of the tragic news.

So far, however, the war department has taken the position that it should continue delivery of the casualty messages by Western Union messenger boy. Army officials argue that delivery by a clergyman would cause confusion and delay, and that a clergyman might not be available at the time, or he might lack proper and immediate transportation.

Also, the army argues that a casualty message has a high priority, which means that its transmission is expedited, and this might be offset by delay at the receiving end if the message had to pass through the hands of a clergyman.

CAPITAL CHAFF

When diplomats run out of liquor, that's a story. Carlos Campbell of the Chilean embassy burst into the office of Chilean Ambassador Michels, saying, "Don Rodolfo, please lend me a case of wine for tonight; I'm having a party!" "I can't do it," replied the ambassador. "I have no wine myself!"

Airplane designers prophesy a combination family car and plane for the not-too-distant future. Most commonly visualized is a three or four-passenger car-plane with removable wings which can be "checked" at the airport.

Predicted performance: 135 to 160 miles an hour cruising speed in the air, 50 to 60 miles an hour on the highway. Mass production would bring cost of unit within reach of the family pocketbook.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Tire life on rough gravel roads is about 40 per cent less than on smooth concrete pavements. This was proved by tests conducted by the Iowa State College.

Soap, it develops, is to be a growing factor in maintaining motor transportation. It has been estimated that 100 million pounds of soap will be required for one year's production of synthetic rubber.

Camelback, which gets its name because it originally had a hump in the center, is a growingly important product of the rubber industry. Over 20 million pounds of camelback are now being made monthly to recap tires.

The Orland Home Bureau held a meeting Thursday evening, Feb. 3 at the home of Mrs. H. Pihl. There was an election of officers and the following will hold office for the coming year: Mrs. Wm. Lelsch, chairman, Mrs. W. P. Francis, vice chairman, Mrs. O. Maue, Sec. Mrs. H. Pihl, Pub. chairman. Mrs. R. Uthe, Entertainment chairman.

Games were played following the meeting and thoroughly enjoyed.

The next meeting will be March 7.

We Can "SINK"
this Tire-Destroyer

• "Stone Bruise" is tough!—Chews up tires and inner-tubes. In fact, he's too tough for ordinary tire repairing methods.

We're equipped to "pull his teeth." . . . We'll fix him so he is no longer a threat to your tire-mileage. Let us guard your tires against this and other enemies—and keep you riding!

"Stitch in Time"

"Tire enemies" usually work in secret until they've badly damaged a tire. They won't do that to yours if you'll let us inspect your tires now. Our inspection uncovers those "Fifth Columnists" so they can be knocked out "in time."
